MAYOR OF CORK.

CORR. MAY 8.—A mass meeting of the citizens was held here on Saturday night, at which the recent speech of the Mayor was warmly endorsed, and resolutions adopted expressing sympathy with and confidence in that functionary.

GLADSTONE'S BILL CONDEMNED.

LONDON, May 8.—Evening.—A public meeting was held in St. James' Hall to-night, under the management of the Mayor, to protest against the Bill for the dis-establishment of the Irish Church. The audience was large, and many Conservative peers and members of the House of Commons were present. Resolutions were adopted strongly condemning Mr. Gladstone's Bill, and calling upon the House of Lords to reject or materially alter it.

IRISH CHURCH BILL IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, May 8, (cont'd).—The House of Commons in Committee to-night, resumed the consideration of the Irish Church Bill. Clause 36, concerning the Bishop of Down, was amended so as to include within the provision for compensation, the ministers of all congregations entitled to compensation by the grant. The amendment was admitted that the compensation was small, but the amendments were small too, and compared the services rendered by the Protestant clergy in Ireland, and according to the principle of the Bill, the present endowment was the only basis for compensation. Clause 37, providing for compensation to the professor, and for payments in respect to the buildings of the College was struck out in compliance with the request of the Protestant Synod and with the consent of the Government. Mr. Gladstone intimated that other provisions would be made for the college.

AMERICAN DESPATCHES.

THE SPANISH QUESTION.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Tribune's special agent. Notwithstanding the confidence expressed by the Spanish authorities of their ability to suppress the Cuban rebellion, the Government is constantly in receipt of intelligence which shows that the insurgents have not brought into action all their available strength, and it is expected that the next two or three months will indicate something definite respecting the struggle, on either side. In the meantime it is not the intention of the Government to interfere to long as every demand made upon the Spanish authorities, where our interests are interfered with, is promptly acceded to.

MR. MOTLEY AGAIN—LET US HAVE PEACE.

World's special agent.—The departure of Mr. Motley to-day for New York, whence he will go on the 10th for England, and his departure too without the specific instructions which he was anxious to carry, and which Mr. Sumner was anxious to write for him, constitute a victory for Mr. Fish over, not only the Minister and Senator from Massachusetts, but over all opposition that has beset him since he has succeeded to the Secretaryship of State. The result is hailed here to-night as the final shaking off by Gen. Grant, of the counselors to violence, who have surrounded him. Secretary Fish indicates with his characteristic non-partisan, and it is believed to be permanent, as the Alabama business now stands Mr. Motley is not to move a finger until further instructions by Mr. Fish. Mr. Sumner labored hard to have Mr. Motley carry out a set of instructions, but gave it up in the middle of last week, and since then both himself and Mr. Motley have been delivering themselves in the most voluble manner, as being entitled to express their views on Fish, whom they tried to supplant while he was absent in New York. Mr. Fish now having the field to his own hand, he is expected to bring all new measures to Washington for a settlement. This may be relied upon.

Receipts

Direct Payments.—Grate three large loaves, your sugar, the plate of boiling milk or milk and cream, and the yolks of four eggs and whites of two, some nutmeg, a little brandy, half a spoonful of oil, sugar to taste. Boil one hour in a basin of mould. Blanch a few almonds and stick over the pudding when turned out.

Cocoa Nut Pie.—Put the rind off and wipe the nut pie, divide two ounces of sugar in a small tureen of water. Boil the sugar a few minutes and add the grated cocoa nut, keep stirring the mixture until it boils. When cooled add the beaten yolks of three eggs, season to taste, a pinch of butter the size of an egg, line the dish with pastry, pour the mixture in, bake and sift sugar over before serving.

Cake.—Beat six eggs, the yolks and whites separately, till the yolks are stiff, add to the yolks the grated rind of a lemon, six ounces of sugar, beat this well for seven or eight minutes, shake in with the left hand six ounces of dried fruit, then add the whites of the eggs and the juice of the lemon. When well beaten pour into a cake pan, and bake nearly an hour.

Lemon Cake.—Beat six eggs, the yolks and whites separately, till the yolks are stiff, add to the yolks the grated rind of a lemon, six ounces of sugar, beat this well for seven or eight minutes, shake in with the left hand six ounces of dried fruit, then add the whites of the eggs and the juice of the lemon. When well beaten pour into a cake pan, and bake nearly an hour.

Almond Cake.—One pound of flour, half a pound of sugar, a quarter pound of butter, two ounces of bitter almonds, blanched and pounded, flour with bread, three eggs, drop on paper or in a small tin, bake in a quick oven. These cakes are not to be rolled, but stirred with a fork as quickly as possible.

Plain Wine Sauce.—Equal quantities of butter and sugar beaten to a cream, one wine glass of wine dropped in while beating, one capful of boiling water poured in just before serving.

The Value of a Newspaper.—But one half the worth of the luxury of a newspaper. We see so many of them. We are gladdened with them. Go into business! Remove far into the country, to some point where the mail comes but twice or three a week; where few strangers break in, and where the few neighbors live in primitive simplicity. Now let the day come round for the newspaper. That day is reserved for errands, and the father is always at the store when the mail arrives. He takes his weekly paper fresh and moist from the bundle, and hastens home with his treasure. It is his Sunday. All the news he knows that the paper has come. After supper, all gather around the fire. The father puts on his spectacles and reads the secular news, and some of the amusing news, stopping to read the news of events to last week's knowledge. Questions are put; paragraphs are read. Calculations are made. Domestic or industrial questions are discussed. The whole family are alive. No evil thoughts stir them.

Epitaphs.—This is a copy from a grave stone in Union District, South Carolina:—

Here lies the body of Robert Gordon. Most slightly and toothy. A stranger, tread lightly over this wonder. If he opens the earth, you go, go, go! This reference to the upper part of Robert's body reminds us of an epitaph on a good woman whose death was caused by a slight lower down.

Here lies the body of Betty Bowden, who would live long, but she could not. Sorrow and grief made her dead. Till her last day, she was a dear.

How will this do on a disreputable subject of the British Crown?

Here lies William Smith, and what is somewhat better, here he is buried, and here he is buried.

Or this, on a Mr. Bywater:—

Here lies the remains of his relative, pre-emptor to live, and by water he lies. Though by water he is followed by water he lies, by water baptismal staining the skies.

Or this, which is commendably exact as to the age of the parties:—

Here lies Donald and his wife, Janet Mac Pherson. Aged 40 years. Aged 30 years.

Or yet this, which being upon an editor, is especially commendable for a copy to the brethren who propose to notice it:—

Here lies an Editor. Sorrow it you will. In mercy, kind Providence, let him be still. He had for his living, as He lived well he lived, when he could not be longer, He had down and died.

A sailor's wife at Portpatrick had just received the intelligence that her husband had perished at sea. She was visited by a neighbor, who sympathized with her loss, and expressed a fear that she would be badly off. "I need I will," said the widow, "but he did it for me—he saved me the expense of funeral."

An eminent doctor said: "I have been using the Pervian Syrup. It gives me new vigor, buoyancy of spirits, elasticity of muscles." J. P. Dandrea, 96 Day Street, New York.

SEIZURE OF THE "MAY LOWELL."
London, May 4.—In the House of Commons this evening, Sir John Lubbock inquired what action the Government had taken in regard to the seizure of the brig "May Lowell" by a Spanish man-of-war in British waters.

Mr. Arthur J. Oliver, Under Secretary for the foreign department, replied that in the present imperfect state of information, it was undesirable to make known the nature of the communications which had been exchanged with the Government of Spain on the subject.

THE MAYOR OF CORK.

London, May 4.—Mr. Edward Sullivan, mayor of Malabar, will introduce a bill in Parliament to prevent the Mayor of Cork from continuing to hold any office connected with the administration of justice in Ireland.

COMMISSIONERS OF IRISH CHURCH.
London, May 4.—In the House of Commons to-night while the Irish Church bill was under consideration, Mr. Gladstone proposed that the names of Lord Monck, late Governor General of Canada, Justice James Anthony Lawson, and George Alexander Hamilton, L. D., be introduced in class three as the commissioners of the Church of the Evangelists in Ireland, constituted under the act.

SPAIN.

Madrid, May 4.—The majority of the delegates in the Cortes are in favor of a new ministry.

RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, May 4.—Prince Alexander Sergeievich Meschikov, formerly of the Russian navy, died yesterday. He was born in 1799.

THE ARCTIC EXPLORATION.
Paris, May 4.—The Geographical Society has decreed a gold medal to Dr. Hayes, of the United States for his eminent service in the work of the Arctic exploration and discovery. To-day the President of the Society with a delegation of members waited on Gen. Dix, the American Minister, and presented him the medal, requesting him to transmit it to his distinguished countryman, and accompanied the presentation with an earnest appeal for continued friendship between France and America.

General Dix, in reply, thanked the president for his friendly expression in regard to his country, and said it was a great pleasure for Americans to see France and the United States working together in traditional friendship for the promotion of discovery, science, and general progress.

VALUABLE RAILWAY TIE

San Francisco, May 4.—A railway tie of polished California laurel, mounted on silver and with solid silver, accompanied by a spike of solid gold, costing two thousand dollars, was forwarded from here yesterday to the office of the Central Pacific Railroad, it is the last tie, and will be laid by inland Stanford on Saturday next, thus completing the Pacific Railroad.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

New Orleans, May 4.—The American Medical Association met here to-day.

CUBAN EXPEDITION.

New York, May 5.—The World's special says:—The Cuban expedition which left here yesterday, sailed in the steamer Arcturion. There were 1,000 men fully equipped, 50,000 rounds of ammunition, several pieces of light artillery, and a large quantity of small arms. The Arcturion cleared for St. Thomas under Peruvian colors. The General commanding the expedition is from St. Thomas, and has been fighting under Spanish and Cuban colors. There was no attempt made by the United States authorities to stop the expedition. The authorities here explain their non-action on the ground that the Arcturion has as yet received no neutrality proclamation, they are not supposed to know that any inscription exists in Cuba or anywhere else.

NO MORE TERRITORY.

Secretary Fish at the Cabinet meeting yesterday, reported against Minister Rosecrans' proposition to purchase Mexican territory, on the ground that we have no money to spare for loss or more purchase, and that we are not very much cramped for real estate.

Truman's special says:—The dispatch relative to the Republican Congress of Cuba declaring for annexation is discredited here.

DANCING DIFFERENCE.—A writer in the Mercury says: "What a strange thing this dancing is, after all, when you look at it from a philosophical, or if you please, unphilosophical point of view. The other day I saw a lady look at me and came to pass that the entrance upon the floor of a ball room made a wonderful change in the usual manner and habits. She asked him what he meant, as she did not understand. He asked her, suppose I introduce you to a friend of mine a stranger, and he would not only take your hand but he would arm around you, what would you do? You may imagine her looks and answer! What would she do? All your lady readers know what she would do, and what the father, husband or brother of such a lady would do. But said I, as I am as soon as you enter the 'hop' or 'ball' you permit a perfect stranger, who is introduced to you at the same time, not only to take your hand but he would arm around your waist and to sail around the room with you, in the giddy maze of the dance, and your father, brother and husband in the next breath would be as not in ordinary life. How wonderful, that delicate ladies can dance from 9 to 12 p.m., in square and round dances, and wind up with a waltz or polka, and yet feel any way to stand up during prayer in church."

Mr. Ball Manganley, the late literary biographer who has qualified for his profession in India, was recently admitted to the Bombay bar.

DEATH OF CHIEF JUSTICE LEFROY.
The Right Hon. T. L. LeFroy, late Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland, died yesterday at the advanced age of 80.

THE SEIZURE OF THE MARY LOWELL.
Madrid, May 5.—The Spanish journals state that the capture of the brig Mary Lowell was a legal act, and that they deny the British government, at the instance of the United States, has made any demand on Spain for the restitution of the vessel.

THE FENIAN MAYOR OF CORK.
London, May 5.—In the House of Commons this evening,
Mr. Sullivan, Attorney General for Ireland, moved for leave to bring in a bill to disqualify the present Mayor of Cork from acting as a magistrate. Mr. Sullivan proceeded to give the reasons for the introduction of the bill. He gave a history of the disqualification of the Mayor up to its culmination in the inflammatory language used at the dinner recently given in Cork to Warren and Costello, and said that after such consideration the government had come to the conclusion that the present step was advisable.

Several members deprecated the course of the government as a stretch of constitutional power, an ordinary action at law being open to it for a remedy.

Mr. John Gray, member for Kilkenny, and Mr. McGee, member for Cork, urged the necessity of giving the Mayor a full opportunity for meeting the charges made against him. They complained that the action of the government was based only on newspaper reports.

Mr. Dineen deprecated as imprudent the release of the Fenian prisoners. If an action for sedition had been taken earlier the present step would not have become necessary. He would not oppose the introduction of the bill, but urged the House to consider well the step proposed and the constitutional questions involved.

Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, assured the House that every facility would be given to the Mayor and his friends to reply. The government would take care not to give any ground for complaints of injustice in the management of affairs. He intimated that he intended to propose the appointment of a commission to investigate the conduct of the police in the late disturbances at Cork.

After further remarks from Mr. Dineen and Mr. Gallagher in support of the measure, leave to introduce the bill was granted and it was read for the first time.

It was ordered that a copy of the bill and a notice of the second reading be served on the Mayor of Cork.

Sue Mundy.

AN EVENTFUL HISTORY—CAREER OF A FRANKED VETERAN.

(From the Detroit Post.)
Nearly every pleasant day pedestrians on our principal avenues pass a dark-eyed beauty of medium size, a plump figure, and richly dressed. In the early spring of 1861, Sue Kiteledge, a lovely girl, just returned from boarding school, lived upon her father's plantation in one of the rural districts of Kentucky, that long in a balance, uncertain whether to risk her fate with the new "Confederacy" or hang back. Sue was 17, a frequent visitor at the adjoining plantation of Mr. Mundy, a well-to-do gentleman whose wife and son, a young man, composed a happy family.

One day a company of Union cavalry rode down upon the place, plundered the premises, carried off the valuables, burned the residence, and finally slaughtered the parents, who were defending their own fireside, laying waste the country in their track, and leaving young Mundy and Sue orphaned. Young Mundy was at last aroused, and while being carried off to a prisoner's ward escaped his lips the word "Sue," which he repeated "Sue," probably the effects of a disordered brain. His lips then began to utter the words "Mundy," which he repeated "Mundy," the constant terror of Union citizens and soldiers in that section.

After being released from a parole, he immediately returned and entered the chancery of his own parents, as well as the body of Mr. K. Taking a solemn and fearful oath of vengeance, and accompanied by Sue, who was now without home or home in this world, he started for a neighboring camp of bushwhackers or guerrillas, where he was received with open arms, and was soon promoted to the office of commander of the force. Sue, disguised and passing by the name of "Sue," an abbreviation of Kiteledge—proved invaluable as a spy, a fearless rider, and of undoubted bravery. Kit, after serving nearly two years as spy and general, planned to desert, and found her health failing. Disguised and armed with the highest testimonials, he succeeded in securing a position on the staff of Gen. Claiborne, the bravest fighting Irishman in the rebel army.

The position she held, doing her duty like a man, until the battle of Atlanta, July 12th, 1864, in which Pat Claiborne was killed. Returning to her youthful home and her father, she again revealed in the carnage of blood, and though her evil spirit was willing her flesh was weak, and Kit was again transferred to duty at Andersonville. Prisoners who have shared the hospitalities of that celebrated camp will perhaps remember a short, stout and muscular young Lieutenant, with flashing black eyes, a face smooth as a maiden's and cruel as though a dead incarnate lurked within. This was Sue Kiteledge, the smiling young boarding school miss, the cheerful companion, the once wealthy heiress, the beautiful maiden and firm friend of young Mundy, whose life and war was harder than her own. Sue Mundy and a part of his band were captured and tried by a court martial. Kit was present during the whole trial, and saw how the evil influence, but of no avail. Sue Mundy was convicted and hung at Louisville, Ky., in March, 1865. The flowing hair still hung about her shoulders, and when his youthful corpse was taken down and laid upon his narrow bed, the bleeding and broken heart of Sue Kiteledge was buried with it; and now, a wanderer on the face of the earth, homeless and friendless, she lives without hope of heaven or money, forsaken and disheveled, and cast away.

Women's Temper

No trait of character is more valuable in a woman than the possession of a sweet temper. Some can never be happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up on our pathway, to revive and cheer us. Let a man go home at night, weary and worn by the toils of the day, and how soothing is a word dictated by a good disposition. It is soothing falling upon his head. He is happy and the cares of life are forgotten. A sweet temper has a soothing influence over the minds of a whole family. Where it is found in the wife and motherly observe kindness and love preponderating over the natural feelings of the heart. Smiles, kind words, and kind looks characterize the children, and peace and love have their dwellings there. Finally, then, to acquire and retain a sweet temper. It is more valuable than gold; it captivates more than beauty; and to the close of life it retains all its freshness and power.

Those people whose hair is turning gray should use Hills' Vegetable Hair Restorer to restore it to its natural color and vigor.

DR. WALTER'S BALM OF WILD CHERRY. It is a combination of the most powerful, soothing and curing diseases of the throat, lungs and chest. The Sewers of Paris.

Decending a winding staircase, we found ourselves at twenty feet below the surface in a stone tunnel as large as the railway tunnel of the New York Central at Thirty-second street, through the centre of which ran a channel of ten feet wide and perhaps five deep, through which a stream of almost impetuous sewerage was just about to empty itself into the Seine. Suspended in the air on iron posts, under the floor, were two great pipes of the diameter of six feet each, through which the water flows that supplies certain parts of the city. Telegraph wires, enclosed in lead pipes, were also hung on the sides of the vault of the sewer. One pipe I looked for, and I did not find, and was I could not see, as there seemed some room for them and much more. The long hall for it seemed such a—opened in several directions, and was lighted quite brilliantly with oil lamps and lanterns, but no one was to be seen. What may be called the depot, in the midst of seventy-five ladies and gentlemen (at least half ladies), who had come on the same train, and then learned for the first time that the sewers were one of the great attractions of Paris, and had daily some hundreds of visitors.

The authorities had provided with French system for their proper reception and conveyance, but under the street rail surveillance. Six open cars, holding twelve persons each, nicely and even elegantly built, cushioned, and with a carpet lamp at each corner, were soon filled with passengers, and we were told that the passengers got into them when they pleased or as they pleased. They had been told, they could not have had less freedom in their motions. They were ordered in and out, packed in pairs, and supervised generally to a very offensive extent, but finally got their places. The rails are placed on the edge of the channel of the sewer so that the cars run directly over it. A path of two feet is left on either side, on which the men go to propel the train. It moves at the rate of perhaps five miles an hour. We soon left the large tunnel, and were switched, car by car, on a circle path, on to a narrower track. We kept passing the numbered openings of smaller sewers, matching the streets above, and into each of these were apparently openings from each building in the street. It is said that there are three hundred miles of these sewers, and that the sewerage into the system, there is nothing extravagant in the statement. The plan seems to be to make the sewers so large and high and light, and to pour so much water continually through them, that it is possible for a necessary force of men to go to the sewer itself or to the pipes that carry the water, the telegraph wires, or any gas pipes that may exist in other parts of the system.

The vast utility in the plan of these sewers is indeed overwhelming to consider, after their original cost, is equally vast, and no greater wisdom could mark the sanitary arrangements of a city. For so long as there are crowded, clogged and filthy streets, and as in New York City, for instance, there will be a constant coming out of their mouths into the streets, as in New York. Unless the sewers themselves are built on such a rapid decline as to cause a swift flow, and are flooded as to cause a swift flow, there can be no adequate security for pure air and a healthy and infectious atmosphere above ground. Now, the proof of the thorough purity of Paris above ground, is the essential sweetness of the sewers themselves; and this is proven by the fact that hundreds of workers live here twelve or fifteen days without sickness or developing any local disease, and still more by the daily evidence that troops of ladies and gentlemen go through the sewers without spotting their garments or disgusting their senses.

The boat, as it floated, aroused no odor. I will not say that the sewer is a very hot day, heavy, and stifling, for it was a very hot day, and it was not an atmosphere one would choose for a July noon, but it was far purer than the air above ground in many of the streets of New York in August or September.

THE CASE OF MAJOR SHAW

Latest by Telegraph.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

THE SULTAN'S POLICY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 9.—The Sultan, on the 6th of May, the first day of the Muharram, made a new year, the Sultan, according to custom, received the Ministers of the Empire, Powers at Constantinople in a body, and made an address of the most public character. He referred with satisfaction to the favorable attitude of the Sultanate with Greece, the pacification of Crete, and the friendly relations of Turkey with all foreign Powers. He said he should continue to insist on economy in the administration, the improvement of judicial procedure, the extension of the railway system, and the equal participation of all classes in the subjects in the obligations and benefits of these reforms. The Sultan's chiefs have been pardoned and set free.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, May 9.—In answer to enquiries from the Associated Press of New York, as to the condition of the London money market, the following may be stated as a correct view of financial affairs here. The stock market has been influenced unfavorably by the increase in the rate of the rate of the Bank of England to 4½ per cent, and the correct belief is that further advance will be made shortly, due to the political uncertainty occasioned by Senator Sumner's speech, the exportation of gold, foreign loans, and the depressed state of the trade.

THE MAYOR OF CORK.

CORK, May 8.—Mr. O'Sullivan, the present Mayor of Cork, has refused the nomination for Parliament from the electors of Youghal. The Irish papers reflect the recent course of Mr. O'Sullivan.

A PROPOSED REGENCY IN SPAIN.

MADRID, May 9.—It is certain that a proposal has been made to the Cortes to name Marshal Sarracín as Regent, and as a President of the Council and Minister of War until a King is elected.

THE LATEST.

MADRID, May 9.—Yesterday Gen. Prim attempted to remove that he mediated an attempt against the liberal regime and pronounced them utterly baseless. He declared that the future would prove that honor and liberty was his motto. It is reported that Gen. Canales, the noted Carlist leader, has appeared in Catalonia. The condition of the national finances causes much anxiety. It is estimated that the revenue will exceed the revenue by 12,000,000 reales.

BREXIT, May 9.—The House has refused to pass a bill for the abolition of imprisonment for debt. Mr. Blandford, of justice, has tendered his resignation to the King. He is to remain in office, but refused to do so unless the Senate is dissolved.

FLORENCE, May 9.—The new Cabinet has been formed as follows: President, General Sarracín, Minister of Foreign Affairs, Minister of Interior, Terranova, Minister of Justice, Minnelli, Minister of Commerce. There will probably be no change on the head of war, marine, or finance department.

BERLIN, May 9.—A Congress of German Protestants to meet at Worms on the 11th May. The object of the meeting is to consider and frame a reply to the recent appeal of the Pope to Protestants.

ENGLISH MARKETS.

LONDON, May 10, 1890 p.m.—Bonds 79½; Erie 114; Liverpool, May 10, 1890 p.m.—Breadstuffs 81½; Red western wheat 84½; Pork 104; Greenwheat, May 10.—The steamer Virginia, from New York, has arrived.

American Despatches.

NEW YORK, May 9.—A radical movement is being made to secure important changes in the Cabinet. It is proposed to place Sumner in the State Department and Stanton in the Treasury. None of the present members propose to resign, however, until the President makes a request for their resignation.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lake Shore Railroad held in Chicago yesterday, the contract for consolidation with the Michigan Southern, was adopted by a vote of two-thirds of the stockholders.

Rep. Kennedy of the Metropolitan Police, received an anonymous letter yesterday from England, advising him of a plot which was being hatched by English stockholders for the satisfaction of James Fitz, Jan.

MORE ATLANTIC CABLES.—The Pall Mall Gazette says:—Frisco, too, we hear, is beginning to think of securing more direct communication with America. It has been suggested that a cable was laid from a point on the seaboard road by the north of Scotland and by the western coast of Ireland to join the Anglo-American cables at Valencia, Prussia would send all the north of Europe messages by this route. It is understood that the Prussian Government recently had the subject before them, and that a concession has been granted to carry out an Atlantic Telegraph, having North Germany for one of its termini. The old project of the North Atlantic cable being again mooted.—The route was to go by Iceland, Greenland, and on to Canada, and the United States, Denmark being the assumed starting point.

—About 4,000 emigrants have been conveyed from Quebec by the Grand Trunk this season. Box cars are not used, and the number of passengers to each car is limited to about half the normal usually carried.

BEANS.—Plants as soon as danger of frost is over. Early Valentine is a standard sort. Plant in drills two feet apart. Leave Lima until the ground is well warmed.

APRILS.—Remove the plants from old beds, and fix in the manner. Sell, at the rate of the bushels to the acre, is beneficial. Sow seed in fifteen inch rows, to get young plants. Conover's Colossal is said to be large and potent. Make beds of year old plants, setting them in well manured soil in two-foot rows, fifteen inches apart.

Malayan Persecutions.

(From Asiatic Journal.)

The man is exceedingly jealous and very strict with his wives. A married woman may not accept a cigar or a silk scarf from a stranger, under pain of death. I was informed that some years ago one of the English traders had a Malayan woman of good family living with him—she was connected being considered quite honorable by the natives. During some festival this girl offended against the law by accepting a flower or some such trifle from another man. This was reported to the Rajah, (to whom some wives the girl was related), and he immediately sent to the Englishman's house, ordering him to give the woman up, as she must be "kissed." In vain he begged and prayed, and offered to pay any fine the Rajah might impose, and finally relented to give her up unless he was forced to do so. The Rajah did not wish to resort to, as he no doubt thought he was acting as much for the Englishman's honor as for his own; so he appeared to let the matter drop. Some time afterwards he sent one of his followers to the house, who beckoned the girl to the door, and then saying, "The Rajah sends you this," established her to the door. More serious indignity is punished still more cruelly the woman and her paramour being tied back to back and thrown into the sea, where some large crocodiles are always on the watch to devour their bodies. One such execution took place while I was at Ampanan, but I took a long walk into the country to be out of the way till it was all over, this mission the opportunity of having a horrible narrative to calumniate my somewhat tedious story.

One morning, as we were sitting at breakfast, Mr. Carter, secretary informed us that there was an "Amok" in the village—in other words, that a man was "running muck." Orders were immediately given to shut and fasten the gates of our enclosure; but bearing nothing for some time, we went out, and found there had been a false alarm, owing to a woman having run away, declaring he would "amok," because his master wanted to sell him. A short time before, a man had been killed at a gaming table, because having lost a half dollar more than he possessed, he was going to "amok." Another had killed or wounded seventeen people before he could be destroyed. In their way a whole regiment of these people will sometimes agree to "amok" and rush on with such energetic desperation as to be very formidable to men not so excited as themselves. Among the ancient times have been looked upon as heroes or demigods who sacrificed themselves for their country. Here it is simply said—every man amok.

Maccas is the most celebrated place in the East "for running a muck." There are said to be one or two a month on the average, and five, ten, or twenty persons are sometimes killed or wounded at one of them. It is the natives and therefore the honorable mode of committing suicide among the natives of Celebes, and is the fashionable way of escaping from their difficulties. A Roman fell upon his sword, a Japanese rises up his katana, and an Englishman blows out his brains with a pistol. The Bugis mode has many advantages to one suicidally inclined. A man thinks himself wronged by society—he is in debt but cannot pay—he is taken for a slave, or has gambled away his wife or child into slavery—he sees no way of recovering what he has lost, and becomes desperate. He will not put up with such cruel wrongs but he will be revenged on mankind and die like a hero. He grasps his krisblade, and the next moment draws out the weapon and stabs a man to the heart. He runs on with a bloody kris in his hand, stabbing at every one he meets. "Amok! Amok!" then resounds through the street. Spears, knives, and guns are brought out against him. He rushes madly forward, kill all he can—men, women, and children—and dies overwhelmed by numbers amid all the excitement of a battle. And what the excitement is those who have been in one but know; but all who have ever given way to violent passions or even indulged in violent and exciting excesses, may form a very good idea. It is a delicious intoxication, a temporary madness that absorbs every thought and every energy. And can we wonder at the Kris bearing, untalented, bloodthirsty Malay performing such a deed, looked upon as almost honorable to the blood-thirsty desire of suicide? He wishes to escape from overwhelming troubles or the merciless clutches of the hangman and the degradation of a public execution, when he has taken the law into his own hands, and too hastily revenges himself upon his country? In either case he chooses rather to "amok."

A note of rats in Dubuque, Iowa, have raised an important internal revenue question. Some $200 worth of stamps were used upon a lot of whiskey barrels, stored in a distillery warehouse. The rats having a taste for the paper, and the stamps being referred to by the revenue agent, the whiskey cannot be sold. The tax on rats is expected from Revenue land quarries.

General Notes.

A company is about to be formed in Belgium for the purpose of constructing railway and telegraph lines in China. The finest camellia in Paris at present in full bloom at the Jardin d'Acclimatation. It has no less than 9,700 buds. The Prince and Princess of Wales will return from their Eastern tour, laden with magnificent presents.

In the neighborhood of Goldborough, N.C. there are 100 acres of land devoted to the cultivation of strawberries. Nineteen-twentieths of the rice raised in the United States is grown within a narrow limit upon the seaboard of the Carolinas and Georgia.

In London, fine diamonds, weighing one carat each, are worth about $1,000; one diamond, weighing fifteen carats, brings from $12,000 to $15,000.

The following was a very remarkable victory in the Gentry (Mo.) Argus: "Farwell! No tears, no sighs, no money. Let us have peace! u. s. a."

The Leinster Express mentions that the Queen will pass two months in Ireland during the next Autumn.

Mr. Froese, the Premier of Belgium, is 37 years old. He is said to be due looking. His father used to be dockkeeper at the University Lodge.

Under the title of "Another Sign of Peace," the Opinion Nationale of Paris mentions that the Minister of War is contemplating on the river Rhine with a new system of gunboats.

The Gazette of Paris calls attention to the fearful losses in gambling in that city, and mentions a fact that a deputy recently won $800,000 in gold at a gaming table from a number of the foreign diplomatic corps.

The Government of Great Britain published three papers, the Gazette of London, Edinburgh, and Dublin. All three make money well in London. Gazette is by far the most profitable. The net revenue from the three last years was more than $90,000. A man who lately sold a lady for breach of promise, was offered $200 to settle.

What? he cried, "two hundred dollars for nothing? I have a hundred dollars, a hundred dollars for all that? Never, never make it three and it's a bargain."

Van Amburgh's Balaioches, which cost $90,000, lately accepted in Carmel, Putnam County, N. Y., and made for the water. A big dog belonging to the menagerie was sent into the pond after the animal, and by desperately clinging to one ear he finally succeeded in bringing it to shore.

The Friend of India newspaper says there is still severe famine in that country. About 300,000 there was much misery. Hundreds starved to the station in every stage of starvation. There were some 1,500 paupers, many of them past work. Day by day bodies were found of those who had fainted and died before they could reach the relief house which the English have started.

The Highlander comes for children are going out of fashion in London. Of late there has been a run upon naval costumes, and it is not an unusual thing to meet a five-year-old boy in the park, in white and all complete, accompanied by his nurse, who draws a perambulator, into which the lady is put when he wants to sleep.

Near Maudslayi, in the Island of Hawaii, there are two lakes, side by side, one of fresh water and the other salt. Both are far above the level of the sea, and it is believed that there is no connection between the salt lake and the ocean. The deposits of salt in the former are now utilized by parties who have established salt works.

A resident of Treasure City, in the White Pine mining region, recently died and a man was hired to dig his grave.

When the funeral cortege arrived at the spot, they were informed by the gravedigger that he had struck a splendid lead and had staked off a claim. He refused to allow the body to be buried in the hole he had dug.

The archives of the Holy Synod, St. Petersburg, which contain materials of the highest value for the history of the Russian Church and religious legislation, have remained hitherto but little known to the learned. The Emperor Alexander had just authorized the appointment of a special commission charged to place these documents in order, and to publish a certain number of them.

Messieurs Bauer, the fashionable preacher at the Chapel of the Tuilleries whose sermons before the Emperor and Empress have attracted so much attention at Roman Catholicism, who 15 years ago turned out a Roman Catholic, was a young looking man, with heavy and rather voluptuous features. In 1843 he was a member of the Revolutionary Academic Legion at Vienna, and he has now become an ultra-reactionist.

Young Brides in Egypt.

Here is something that will interest the girls. It is from a letter written by a traveler. To be one's own mistress and a married woman at twelve or thirteen years of age, may seem pleasant and romantic to misers in their teens, but the conditions of such independence in Egypt rarely take away from the real color which an American girl would picture so early an experience of married life. It would hardly suit the delightful anticipations of "sweet sixteen," to the drudgery of a lady Arab, beset occasionally when he was in an ill-humour, and absolutely woe and wretched when twenty-five, with a smoked skin and a face and form like a mummy.

Marriages in Egypt are for the most part made up affairs. People employ professional match-makers, who buy up wives, beguile themselves home with the parents about the dowry, and then sell them again to those whose agents they are, or to the highest bidder.

This husband becomes possessed of a wife much as he would become possessed of any other article of household stuff; a week of cloth for instance, which, indeed, as to outward appearance, the girls very much resemble.

What with veils and wigs, slippers and take the poor fellow can never see inside of the bundle of goods that he has been marrying until he is irresistibly in love. It may be a critical moment, I fancy, that which he first removes the veils, and then the blushing bride, who may be fourteen or forty, handsome or hideous, for aught that he has ever seen.

In Cairo I have seen little brides in their bridal raiment, walking under their marriage canopies, who could not, by the look of them, have passed eleven or twelve years of childhood.

One little puss I remember to have seen figuring as principal in a ceremonial of this kind, had to be chidden, and the procession had to be stopped in consequence of her unseemly behavior.

She had dreamed to have a little fun on her wedding day, and so she frolicked accordingly. Poor men have an embroiled aving over her head.

A very fair damsel, her bridesmaids, equipped, and hired women, uttering cries of joy, walked two and two, in her rear; but this young bride burst through them all, and bounded off to the musicians in front, she had a tattoo on the big drum, to the astonishment of the drummer.

Of course every eye was horrified. Such a behavior was simply shocking—a manifest crime. Poor little woman! what could a husband do to tame such a wild and wayward girl?

Indeed, a most rebelling and mortifying carriage is imperative on these occasions. The bride has to walk very slowly and sedately through the festive streets—a short step, one foot just in advance of the other, a kind of shuffle in walking.

She is supposed to have her hands chained one to another, and frequently her I believe—symbolical, I presume, of the state of submission into which she has happily entered. How long this pleasing state of submission continues, I don't know.

Said used to tell me funny tales of the vicissitudes and disappointments experienced in some of his brother donkey-boy marriages.

It was not all cakes and ale, he said—far from it. "Those demure little maidens, so timid and shy, had a will of their own. They seemed very pious and soft in outward look, but there were sharp claws underneath the sleek fur."

"So and so," he would tell me, "been crying a morning—'he's bad, bad, he's just married, you know, and wife, etc., etc."

I knew what the boy meant, and wished him (said) better luck when the fatal day came.

I could recount several of these little histories, but the following will serve.

A fellow named Haroun, when he came of age to marry, not finding a suitable wife in his own village, travelled through the neighboring districts until he met with a very poor couple, who had an only daughter.

He made his propositions, was accepted, and after the necessary delay, found himself possessed of a wife. A deal of him some tribulations need not be given. So he it is to say, that the bride too young to have a witness with her of the propriety of her being landed over to the rough sea of a stranger, was as resolute as the first lioness of the bazaar.

"During the first half of the honeymoon, Haroun's face became so crimsoned with scratches that no friend could recognize him. He gravely applied for redress to the parents, who promised to do it, and intercede. If they did it, it was without effect."

The bridegroom returned to his native village with a new father and mother, and a wife whom it was dangerous to approach as a hedgehog tied in a bag. Had he been alone with her, the matter might have been smoothed at the expense of a few tears, but in the midst of his remonstrances the old people would invariably rush to the rescue, and accuse the bewildered man of assaulting their daughter.

Under these circumstances he applied to the chief of the village, who is esteemed as good counsel.

"The matter is easy," said the chief. "I pretend not to give it up as a bad job, and go out as if it were. The old people will soon grow weary of staying at home. Watch thy opportunity, and slip back, armed with a good stick, as soon as they are out. Let the stick be at least two fingers in thickness, and when thou hast locked them in, fall to in the name of the prophet and beat thy wife well—beat her till she shriek for mercy, beat her till thou draw blood—Zay, Zay, Zay, Zay, Zay, Zay, and, by my beard, she will become as amiable as a young bullock that feedeth out of his master's hand."

The bridegroom did as was advised, and when the parents came back they found their daughter humbly and docile, just differing after capture, with one eye brimming with love and the other bound up with a rag.

In this way," said the narrator, "I was saved from the necessity of a divorce."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

OTTAWA, May 18.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY ARRANGEMENT.

On motion of the Hon. Mr. Ross, the House went into Committee of the Whole on the "Act to confirm and give effect to a certain agreement between the Government of Canada and the Great Western Railway Company."—The Hon. Col. Gray in the chair.

Hon. Mr. Holroyd thought that the whole of the supporters of the Government were about to withdraw their support on this question, but he thought that the Government would be able to get the Bill to go on, considering it his duty to withdraw his promise of support from his friends, on the higher and much more important consideration of being able to obtain that great boon for the Dominion—good government, (great laughter). He supposed that the gentlemen were anxious in their professions, yet he believed if he should withdraw his support, the Government would have a larger vote than if he voted with them. (renewed laughter).

Hon. J. H. CAMPBELL said the position of the member for Chateaugay was quite as logical as that of the Government supporters who had proposed to change sides on this question. The fact that the leaders of the opposition were supporting the Government, was a good reason why the supporters of the Government should do so. He himself thought the Government had done exceedingly well in bargaining with the company.

Mr. BOWELL could not occur in the remarks of the hon. member for Peel. The fact that there was a combination between the members and the leaders of the opposition, was a good reason why the supporters of the Government should do so. He himself thought the Government had done exceedingly well in bargaining with the company.

BELLEVILLE, COUNTY OF HASTINGS, DOMINION OF CANADA, WEDNESDAY, EVENING, MAY 19, 1869.

No. 16.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT. HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The Intercolonial Railway.

Monday, May 17th, 1869.

The following is a continuation of the debate on the motion of Mr. Mackenzie: Mr. CARTWRIGHT had listened with great interest to the debate, as much importance was attached to the subject. The people of Ontario had accepted the Intercolonial railway as a price of confederation, and one distinguished politician, the leader of the party to which the hon. member for Lambton belonged, had declared his willingness to pay the price of five Intercolonial railways for confederation. He (Mr. Cartwright) was not willing to agree to such an extravagant proposition, but he had not, unfortunately, him the member for Lambton had said he would not have accepted confederation with the North Shore railway as a condition. He (Mr. C.) remembered the hon. gentleman's speech on confederation, in which he had mentioned much more favorable views of the North Shore route. He (Mr. C.) would, with the permission of the House, read from page 48 of the Confederation debate to show that at that time the member for Lambton held a different view regarding the Bay Chaleur route. (Hear, hear.) In his speech that occasion the member for Lambton said: "As regards the Intercolonial Railway, I have taken some little interest in that question, and I know that I would be compelled to discuss it on approaching this subject, and on examining the papers and report of Major Robinson I find that there is no difficulty whatever in writing as the conclusion as to the comparative cost. The route that is most feasible—that alluded to by the hon. member for Richmond—the Northern or Eastern route, by the bay of Chaleur—is about 455 miles from Halifax to Quebec." Mr. Cartwright then extracted showing that when confederation was under discussion, Mr. Mackenzie not only regarded Major Robinson's route as the most feasible but apparently the only route worth speaking about. Mr. C. then continued and hoped that the hon. member would again come back to his former views regarding the north shore railway. (Laughter.) And he would give an amendment to the motion to which he hoped the gentleman would give the same kind consideration as the gentleman on the treasury benches had the other night given to his amendment. (Laughter.) There had been the most reckless assertions made regarding the cost of the construction of the various lines, but these assertions were not entitled to much consideration. Major Robinson's line had been lengthened some 40 odd miles by the estimate of Mr. Fleming for carriage, but it had been since proven that that was an entire mistake. Mr. Fleming had since located several miles of road on Major Robinson's line, and it had been found that there was but a mile difference between them, and that that had been caused by a curving introduced by Mr. Fleming for the crossing of Metaphor. He then exposed the risk of having to negotiate for the existing lines, contending that the question of construction was not so great as had been represented. Between any of the proposed routes. He attached a good deal of importance to the trade of Canada to have this road as a protection against the probable action of the United States—not that he thought the freight would ever seek ocean by the Bay Chaleur route, or by the central route—the only other route possible within our territory. As there was another feature connected with the north shore route, and that was the proposed line of European travel suggested by Mr. Fremont in connection with this road and the road across Newfoundland, whereby the trip from Europe might be reduced by nearly one-half. He thought this was a matter which had not yet received the attention it had deserved. He concluded by moving an amendment, reading the House considered that the Intercolonial negotiations—that the line having been located, the land guaranteed, the money raised, and seven sections of the line placed under contract under the circumstances the House considers that any discussion as to the route of the Intercolonial railway would not answer any good purpose, and would greatly prejudice the credit of the Dominion at home and abroad.

At six o'clock the Speaker left the chair after recess. Dr. Tupper seconded the amendment proposed by Mr. Cartwright. He stated that to adopt the resolution offered by the hon. member for Lambton would be to go back upon the engagement solemnly entered into with this country by the Imperial Government and the English capitalists. The mover of the resolution treated the question as if from the stand-point of last season instead of from this season. What answer would the hon. member for Lambton give to the English capitalists? Who would charge him with using the money for work other than the one decided on when the loan was obtained, and on one which the Imperial Government had condemned. The resolutions totally ignored the fact of any agreement being made. No number of this House who were not prepared to repudiate the solemn engagement entered into with the Imperial Government, under which the great loan had been obtained, would, in his opinion, vote for these resolutions. The question was settled in 1858, because then it was decided by all the Governments of the Provinces that this route should be the one that would meet with the sanction of the Imperial Government, and no objection was made by the country to that objection. The Macdonald-Snow Government had agreed to go on with the railway without raising any objection to the decision that the route should be selected by the Imperial Government at the Quebec conference; also, it was agreed by an overwhelming majority that the Imperial authorities should decide the question of the route. Therefore, it was too late in the day to raise this question. The Imperial Government had decided to have no other route, and hence, according to the agreement of the Government of the Provinces, no other route could be accepted by the hon. member. The hon. member for Charlotte had agreed that the route should be built to St. John, rather than to Halifax, which was directly contrary to the provisions of the C. N. Act. As for St. John was concerned, that city was already well supplied with railways. He argued that the north shore line was not only the shortest but the cheapest. The central line was out of the question, because it was fenced off at a distance of survey to be impracticable. The question was narrowed down to the frontier and north shore lines. According to the calculations of the most reliable authorities, by the north shore route 450 miles would have to be built at $40,000 a mile, amounting in all to $18,000,000. If the frontier line had been adopted, the Government would have been compelled to buy 51 miles from an American company, otherwise that portion of the line would have to remain in possession of that company. The mover of the resolutions had assumed that the government could have taken advantage of this part of the line which was built, but on the contrary that company would take advantage of the government. Assuming that it could be purchased it was not too much to say that it would cost as much to build the road at $40,000 per mile. At this rate the 451 miles by the frontier line including the 51 miles already built would cost $18,040,000; that was $250,000 less than the cost of the North Shore line; but not only was it the shortest and cheapest but it was regarded as the most important. Affecting the running future expenses it was infinitely superior to any other line. Moreover it was well known that the North Shore route was less liable to be blocked up with snow. Besides, the frontier route would have to engage in a ruinous competition with the existing lines of traffic. With regard to public opinion in Nova Scotia as far as his knowledge went, the North Shore route received the most emphatic approval. He was bound frankly to say that it would be many years before the line would produce a revenue to the country, but the experience of Railway companies in Nova Scotia justified him in saying that new life and prosperity would be imparted to the whole country through which the railway would pass, and thus the whole country would be indirectly benefited. In his opinion the North Shore line would ultimately prove to be the most advantageous to Ontario. Every member of the House was aware of the importance of inter-continental communication—the capacity of England were spending their money lavishly in an attempt to shorten the distance between the two continents. He argued that by the Intercolonial railway two days would be saved in reaching England, and he believed the day was not far distant when the line would become the great highway between the two continents. This view of the question had raised it to one of immense national importance. St. John, Newfoundland, was only 1,640 miles from Port Queenstown, and by building a railroad across Newfoundland of 250 miles—a perfectly practicable scheme—the port of St. John, N. B., which possessed a capital harbor for seven months in the year, would be brought into direct communication with England, and the great cities of the west would be brought nearer to Liverpool by 127 miles than by way of Halifax. This facility in an attempt to shorten the line would benefit more from the northern line than the west. He was satisfied that

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

At the Grand Trunk Railway Station the day was observed with all honor. In the forenoon about 20 of Captain Newell's Rifle Company marched to the Grand Trunk Rifle range, to engage in a friendly match. There were three shots fired at 200, 300, and 400 yards respectively. The first prize, a Smith & Wesson Revolver, was won by Sergeant Mills in 27 points, second prize, $2, by Private M. Barker, third prize, $2, by Sergeant Clark, fourth prize, $1, by Private J. Northcott. In the afternoon about 200 people assembled and the usual games, such as sack race, wheelbarrow races, jumping, the rolling bar, etc., took place, and 100 prizes were distributed with great spirit by the employees, and the proceedings passed off in a very happy manner.

STILL THEY COME.—We learn that over 400 Swedish, German and Norwegian emigrants passed Belleville by Grand Trunk Railway this morning, all destined for the Western States.

NEUTRALITY.—The New York Tribune says the neutrality laws are to be strictly enforced by the Government, and no expeditions to Cuba are supposed to have or receive for the insurgent Cubans will be allowed to leave this port. The Mahoning, one of the latest steam cutters in the service has been ordered to this port to assist in enforcing the laws.

The Queen's Birthday.

Yesterday, the fifth anniversary of the birthday of the Queen, was celebrated right royally by the inhabitants of Belleville. It was generally observed as a holiday, very few places except saloons and hotels. The weather was delightful, and as announcements had been made that a variety of sports and amusements would be provided, large numbers came in from the country. It was unfortunate that the arrangements were not correct, as great disappointment was felt by those who came from a distance expecting that at least some games and sports would take place, and it much to their regret that their expectations were not realized. At early morning the fact that it was the Queen's Birthday was fully borne in upon us by the youngsters, who as usual upon every return of the day, were bent upon making party of the most of it, and with this pair of pistols, which, as usual, were out of our gunnery. The day was ushered in by the firing of a royal salute at the Depot. Flags and bunting were displayed from the principal buildings and on the vessels in the Harbor, and altogether the Town presented a holiday appearance. As the sun continued his journey towards the zenith, the people flocked in from the country in multitudes, and many of them walks and thoroughfares to their utmost capacity. About ten o'clock, a. m., the Firemen headed by their band and accompanied by their Steamer and hand Engine, fully decorated with flags and bunting, marched through the principal streets, presenting a very fine appearance. The 15th Battalion, the old Belleville Rifles under Capt. Haubly, and also two other companies of the 4th and 12th Regiments, came from the Depot, and marching to the Court House Hill, were put through various evolutions by their commanding officers, and the usual drill was performed. In the afternoon the sports and games were to come off, and the way to the usual place on Taylor's Hill, and of course were sadly disappointed. Considerable amusement was created, however, by the boys who were determined to have a little fun on their own account. Several rows on a small scale took place, and those who indulged in horseplay were making a show of their animals on the track, while the boys kept up an incessant fire with crackers and squibs, frightening the horses, and to the great discomfort of nervous old ladies and small children.

A great many excursions and private picnics took place at which we have no doubt the participants enjoyed themselves hugely. In the evening the Firemen again made their appearance in torch-light procession, making a fine appearance as they came down Front Street, throwing up fireworks along the route. Among the streets were a perfect fun with their own accounts. Large numbers of the country people remained in town till evening, expecting that they would be treated to a display of fireworks from the Court House Hill, especially as they had been disappointed in the first part of the program, but they were again mistaken for nothing of the kind took place, and at last wearied with the heat and the noise of the fireworks, they went home, some with merriment, some with sleep.

Upon the whole, however, it was a day of very general enjoyment, although we should wish to have seen better arrangements made for the amusement of our two-legged ones, no accidents occurred that we have heard of to mar the pleasures of the day.

At the Grand Trunk Railway Station the day was observed with all honor. In the forenoon about 20 of Captain Newell's Rifle Company marched to the Grand Trunk Rifle range, to engage in a friendly match. There were three shots fired at 200, 300, and 400 yards respectively. At the invitation of Mr. Davis, of the firm of J. T. Hayden & Co., a party of between twenty-five and thirty had a trip on their Tug in the afternoon, of which more anon.

Chancery Sittings.

FIRST DAY.
FRIDAY, MAY 31.
NICHOLS & WOOD.

This was an action to recover possession of a lot of land in Reach; the matter was argued by a witness on the part of the plaintiff, who was the grantee of Mr. McGee's patent. The Plaintiff insisted that he was a man who formerly lived in Maryland, and who in the time of the late war, whose name had been conveyed to plaintiff. The defendant contended that the McGee was a man who lived at Concession, and was bound to death there many years ago in consequence of a witness on the part of the defendant. The defendant had possession of, and produced the patent and the deed from Mary McGee to McGee.

The Vice-Chancellor thought that sufficient evidence was not produced by the plaintiff to entitle him to a decree, though he expressed himself as by no means satisfied with the title of the defendant, though the possession of the title deeds he thought a very strong point in his favor.

Bill dismissed with costs. R. P. Jellist, for Plaintiff; P. McGregor, for Defendant.

SECOND DAY.

SATURDAY, MAY 31.

BANK OF MONTREAL vs. McFALL.

This was a bill to reform a release under seal given some two years ago by the Plaintiff to the Defendant. The intention of the Bank was to release McFall, but the legal effect of the instrument signed, was also to release McFall's endorsers. It is acknowledged that this was the intention of both the Bank and McFall, but the endorsers were not released, and nothing of it till after it was signed. The Court is asked to reform the instrument so that it may express the real intention of the parties, there would be no question of doing this, as only the original parties were interested, but one of the endorsers, Cummings, who is the real defendant in this suit, contends that he has been placed in a worse position by the action of the Bank, and that he has a right to claim that this instrument should be disturbed.

JUDGMENT REVERSED.

SMITH vs. SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

It appears that in January, 1899, Mr. Smith purchased at public auction, a lot on Taylor's Hill, being part of the Blacklock estate, for $1450. He says for a site for a Common School. Up to the present time the different payments upon said lot have been paid out of School money, but the last payment of $2500 coming due, the present School Trustees refused to pay the same, contending that the purchase was not made for them as there is no entry on the books authorizing him (Mr. S.) to purchase the lot. The present suit is brought to compel the Trustees to pay the last payment, (Mr. S.) contending that the purchase was made by direction of the Trustees, and to relieve him Smith from all liability in said purchase.

JOHN MACINTOSH, Amr. Secretary of the Board of School Trustees; Mr. Smith was a member of the Board in 1898.

Geo. D. Dickson, sworn.—Am Assignee of the Blacklock estate, sold a lot on the 8th January, 1899, to James Smith, was told about the time it was knocked down that it was purchased for the School Trustees; thinks the property was worth more than $1450.

Cross-examined.—Did not sign the contract of sale till three months ago, had received three instalments before I signed it.

To Mr. Hodgins.—Said Smith before I signed the contract and renewed.

Cross-examined.—Think both Mr. Bowell and Mr. Smith bid; do not know if Mr. Bowell was acting for the Trustees; received the first instalment of purchase money shortly after the sale.

To Mr. Diamond.—Signed the contract at the instigation of Mr. Smith's Solicitor; considered the contract before I signed it.

John A. MacIntosh recalled.—In the minutes of 2nd January, 1899, there is no record of a resolution authorizing Mr. Smith to purchase the lot; think there was such a resolution.

Geo. W. Watson, sworn.—Remember the meeting of the 2nd January, 1899, and a resolution passed to purchase the lot for the Trustees; think it was not entered on the books for fear it was known the Trustees wanted it; it would not have been entered on the books, the Chairman, said at the next meeting that it had been purchased for the Trustees; said a motion to that effect was entered in the books.

Cross-examined.—Could not state if all the members were present at the meeting on the 2nd January; do not know who first spoke of the matter about the lot; think the motion was made to purchase the lot; think it attached to some important documents, and directed that it should be a resolution upon the Town Council was produced, being a resolution under the corporate seal, the seal put on the books; it was a written motion; the clerk to put the seal to all By-Laws; he sealed the originals but did not seal some of the copies; was authorized by the Board to seal the Blacklock lot; advertised it for sale; when the instalments came due was borrowed the school money and paid to replace it when the money was received from the Trustees.

To Mr. Blake.—The Treasurer was ordered not to pass this item through the books; this was the only time such a thing was done; this same never went into the accounts of the Board; we received our own rate 1897, since then we received it from the Trustees; there is no balance of cash hand; the Town has not given us the means to pay for the lot yet; ordered Mr. MacIntosh to put on the seals the copies of the By-Laws when examining his books a couple of weeks since.

To Mr. Hodgins.—Mr. Smith left the Board in Jan. 1899; paid costs against Smith for the first instalment on the lot in Feb. 1899.

Mr. HOLDEN, sworn.—Am subscribing witness to the deed from Mr. Blacklock to Mr. Smith.

This closed the evidence. The case was then argued by the Counsel for the Plaintiff and Defendant.

JUDGMENT DEFERRED.

Funeral Extravagance.

Chinese funerals are marked by the most costly ceremonies and the lavish expenditure of money. For days before the burial the body is surrounded by candles, incense, and food. Numerous priests chant prayers about the remains for the departed spirit. Coffins are made of the most costly materials of money, gold, and trimmed in the most elaborate manner. Troops of women dressed in white garments proceed in procession to the grave. Men having white tassels braided into their queues, solemnly march in the procession, and in the crowd tread a deep sigh or groan. Before the coffin is deposited in the earth it is filled with an abundance of clothing. Following the burial day, various services and ceremonies are performed for several days, and on every subsequent seventh day for seven weeks. The expenses resulting from these customs are a recent writer assures us, "almost intolerable." Very many families are burdened with debt because of them, from one generation to another, in order to furnish, for a few days, an ostentation and empty display in honor of the dead.

These customs strike the civilized traveler as being absurd; and they consequently provoke criticism; but how closely do the realists of our funeral rites and ceremonies in many respects. How much more of wisdom and common sense do we exhibit than the idolatrous Chinese! The expenses attendant upon dying are becoming formidable to many of our living people, and on every subsequent seventh day for seven weeks. The funeral expenses of a gentleman who died in the city a few days ago were reported at $5000, the wreaths, evergreens, etc., to deck his coffin, and grave, costing to $250, a new carpet of paying from $100 to $250, a new carpet for coffin, $100 and upwards are now paid. Heavy carriage bills have to be met, and other expenses attending funerals are proportionate.

Large men, sextons, undertakers, grave-diggers, liveries, and others are ready to ingratiate at such times to practice impositions. They take advantage of our bereavement and grieve to change exorbitant prices, knowing, as they do, that bills are not liable to be disputed at such a time. And thus it is that the expenses consequent upon a funeral, have come to be appalling to a person of moderate means. In burying a child, a father is perhaps compelled to use up his savings, or to cripple his earnings of a long period, or to cripple him in the future. We recall a widow whose little all was consumed in making what was then a respectable funeral for her son.

The Great Pacific Railway.

TABLE OF DISTANCES BETWEEN NEW YORK AND SAN FRANCISCO AND THE GREAT EAST.

(From the Toledo Blade, April 26th.)

Route	Miles	Hours
New York to Chicago, Ill.	811	16 1/2
Chicago to Omaha, Neb.	411	24 1/2
Omaha to Bryan, Neb.	255	12 1/2
Bryan to Ogden, Utah	232	10 1/2
Ogden to Elko, Nevada, via Great Pacific Railroad	465	18 1/2
Elko to Sacramento, Cal.	465	18 1/2
Sacramento to San Francisco	465	18 1/2
Waters Pacific Railroad	117	3 1/2
Total	3,531	161 1/2

Thus a total distance of 3,531 miles is made, according to the present schedule time, in six days and seven and a half hours actual time by a traveler's watch, from which we deduce three and a half hours difference of time when going west, leaving the apparent time consumed in making the trip six days and fourteen hours.

Fast Men of New York.

N. Y. Correspondence of the N. H. Statesman. New York is a place where a vast amount of hard work is done, and yet it contains a large number of loungers, the richer class, of whom are termed "men about town." This name signifies those who are rich enough to do nothing but amuse themselves. They keep fast horses and fast women; and it is this class that support the jockey clubs and other wasteful institutions. One cannot be much of a "man about town" on less than $10,000 a year, and some of this class spend five times that amount. Some of these are single, and some are married; but the matrimonial is not much account with them, and a wife is never allowed to stand in the way of other attractions. Indeed, "the better half" is not much troubled with her husband's society. The man about town owns a box at the opera for himself, and perhaps two or three for female friends of a special character. He has a splendid turn-out, though his team, fleet as it may be, is not as fast as himself. He may own a yacht and have stock in race-courses without interfering with his general character for idleness; and indeed he may have an interest in some business whose burden is borne by others while he shares the profits. Among this class some are disposed to include Belmont, the banker, who lives at the Fifth avenue and is a fancy man in many different ways. His connection with the Rothschilds gives him an income of $100,000, which will enable him to out-pace a dash. Leonard Jerome, the rich stock speculator is also claimed to be one of the number; but whether he is or not, he knows how to make the money fly. He is probably spending larger sums than any man of his class in the city. The world extravagance manifested by these "men about town" exceeds all belief, and the sums which they annually expend would be a fortune to a man of moderate means. However, they generate a ruinous at the end of the year, and sink rapidly to the lowest stage of dissipation, and disappear in the general current of misery.

In one of our inland towns has dwelt a man whose name is identical with that of the famous inventor of India rubber goods. He had arrived at advanced years and had accumulated a fortune. His two sons went to New York and commenced business as stock brokers, and at the same time entered the ranks of our "men about town." One of them soon abandoned himself to splendid dissipation; and it is said that in three years he spent $90,000. It is also said that his estate, on the "Black Crook," and the infamous contents of that most debauching exhibition, cost him $50,000. The result is the ruin of the concern and all of its best friends. One young relative who had made a snug fortune, has been forced to sell a beautiful mansion to meet his endorsement on their paper, while the father and mother have abandoned their home, and with their ruined sons have gone South, in the hope of retrieving their fortunes or hiding their miseries from the eyes of those who knew them in their prosperity. A more deplorable spectacle than this is seldom met. Another instance of the profligacy of these men about town is found in an offspring of the Coster family. We used to see this fellow dashing through Broadway with his splendid team, and scattering money in all the avenues of dissipation. But the time came when the writer (then a clerk) had to run him for a bill of fifty cents. He did him through for $500,000, and from a splendid suite of rooms in a Broadway hotel he went to the street and soon disappeared. The average life of a man about town is about five years, though some who have a strong constitution, may resist the ravages of dissipation twice that length of time.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

DYSPEPSIA.

There is no disease more common than dyspepsia. It is a disease which has been completely cured by this medicine, as ample testimony is given in the following.

PERUVIAN BARK.

(A prolonged solution of the Peruvian of Iron) as Dyspepsia. The most inveterate forms of this medicine, as ample testimony is given in the following.

FROM THE VENERABLE ARCHDEACON SCOTT, D. D.

DUBLIN, Canada East.
"I am an inveterate dyspeptic of more than 25 years standing."
"I have been in wonderful health in the three short months since I have used the Peruvian Syrup, that I can scarcely persuade myself of the reality. People who have known me are astonished at the change. I am widely known, and can best recommend to others that which has done so much for me."

ANOTHER CLERGYMAN WRITES AS FOLLOWS:

"My voyage to Europe is indefinitely postponed. I have discovered the 'Fountain of Health' on this side the Atlantic. Three bottles of Peruvian Syrup have rescued me from the fangs of the foul dyspepsia."
A pamphlet of 32 pages, containing a history of this remarkable remedy, with a treatise on "Iron as a medicine," will be sent free to any address.

The genuine has "PERUVIAN SYRUP" blown in the glass.

The Cane-Bottomed Chair.

BY WM. MARKHAM TRACKER
In tattered old slippers that toast at the hearth,
And a ragged old jacket perforated with scars,
A ray from the world and its toll and its care,
I've a snug little kingdom up four of stairs.
To mount to this realm is a toil, to be sure,
But the fire there is bright and the air rather pure.
And the view I behold on a sunny day
Is grand through the chimney-pots over the way.
This snug little chamber is crammed to all winks
With worthless old stick-backs and silly old
And foolish old odds and foolish old odds,
Cracked hampers from brooks, crack keep-sakes
From friends.
Old armour, pistols, pictures, pipes, chains, (all cracked),
Old cracked tables, and chairs broken-backed,
A two-penny treasure, worthless to me,
What matter? 'tis pleasant to you, friend, and me.
No better divin' need the sailor require
Than the creating old odds that leak by the fire.
And 'tis wonderful, surely, what music you get
From the tickety, rattle, rattle, rattle you spit
That playing-car came from a Tarnovian's chest.
By tiler once twined that broken old lamp;
A Mammoth fierce yonder dagger has drawn,
Tis a wonderful knife to look at, muffed up
Long, long, through the hours and the night
And the day.
How we talk of old books and old friends and
old times,
As we sit in a fog made of old tobacco,
This chamber is pleasant to you, friend, and
me.
Of all the old things, treasure that garnish my cell,
There's one I love best and I cherish the best;
For the least of cozies that's dotted with fluff.
I never would change thee, my cane-bottomed
chair.
Tis a bready-legged, high-shouldered work-
man's seat,
With a cracking old back, and twisted old feet,
But since the fair morning when Fancy sat
There,
I bless thee, and love thee, old cane-bottomed
chair.
If chairs have but feeling in holding each charms,
I'll have had passed through your withered
old skin.
I looked and I longed and I wished in vain,
I wished myself turned to a cane-bottomed
chair.
If war-bled a moment the sea in its place,
She'd a scarf on her neck, and a smile on her face.
A gleam on her lips, and a rose in her hair,
And she sat there and bloomed in my ear-bottomed chair.
And so I have valued my chair ever since,
Like the shrine of a saint, or the throne of a priest.
Said Fancy, my precious sweet, I declare,
The Queen of my heart and my cane-bottomed
chair.
When the candles burn low and the company's gone,
In the silence of night as I sit alone—
I'll have been, and yet yet a pair—
My Fancy I was my cane-bottomed chair.
She comes from the past and recalls my room,
She looks as she sits, all beauty and bloom;
So smiling and tender, so fresh and so fair,
And yonder she sits in my cane-bottomed chair.
A strong man never Despairs.

Adrift on the North Sea.

BY THOMAS WHITE
The day wears on; night falls, and our friends the fishermen are still busy at their task for they intend to continue their labour until to-morrow's dawn. There is no foreboding of danger. True, the sky begins to overcast with clouds, and a brisk breeze has sprung up from the northeast, but the like they have often seen before. Ah! little do they dream of what is before them. Night passed on the "moraine bank" (a quantity of fine) is set;
and as the first grey streaks of dawn up the east, the breeze increases to a gale. The little crew, looking uneasily around, commenced hauling the boats into the boat, preparatory to a start for home.
Before the last of the line are drawn in the gale has increased to a hurricane, wildly it whistled through the shrouds of the tiny bark, sending her like a thing of air above the wide, wide sea. Said thought.
It was driving her further and further from their active shore. Poor fellow!
The fearful blast! higher rise the surging waves, until the fishing boats looked like a nutcracker on the turmoil of waters—Storms the crew had been before, on-like that I never! In their narrow boat How struggle for the mastery, against the odds of wind and wave, until two mighty billows rise in awful majesty above each gunwale. Up, up, piles the fearful wall of water, and the crew are hurled from stricken side of the ocean, as they are the yawning gulf into which they have to run. Oh, who could the agony of that moment! Contaminated by the King of beasts, of that lone mother, who dwelt at home, of that lone mother, who dwelt with grief for the loss of a faithful son, that tender wife wringing her hands in despair, as she sits to the wall of the little one calling for their father.
They stand aghast, as they behold
the expression of a desperate on each other's countenance, and the despairing cry of one is heard.
"Ah, boys, we'll soon be gone!"
But the eye of a kind Providence was watching over the tempest-tossed. An almighty hand appeared to grasp those might waves and stay their mad career, until the frail bark had sprung up from the fearful valley, high on the crest of another wave, freed once more from the jaws of destruction.
How revived again, and our friends
there land a head. Oh, on the dash over the warring waters. At last, they near the land. Again dismay seizes them; for far along the coast as the eye can reach, low frowning, jagged rocks, against which the billows lash and roar with redeemed fury. Oh, how their hearts sink within them! But, lo! high on the top of yonder rock, form after form appears, and above the din of the storm sounds the voice of welcome. By a signal given by the crowd on the shore, our storm-tossed friends are directed to round a point of rock, when, oh, joy of joys! they behold an inlet. Soon their noble little bark is gliding along a smooth harbor in the Farns Islands, for such is its name. Toward the shore many are gathering to meet them, whose hearts beat with warmest sympathy
for the weary fishermen.
The boat has scarcely touched the beach
when a crowd of willing hands hoist her anchors, and upon the shore. Our friends soon welcomed to the warm hearths and hospitable boards of the Farns Islanders. I doubt not but that many a prayer of thankfulness went up that night to the King Eternal for His sparing mercies.—From

MESSRS. LAIRD'S LETTER.
 London, May 23.—The Times this morning, reviewing the Messrs. Laird's letter of defence, denies any intention on the part of the Government in permitting the Alabama to sail. The writer declares the insufficiency of the law and considers the precedent most mischievous. The question of liability between States for the incompetence of the law, is a doubtful one.

The Daily News says it will wait good assurance that the American Minister, Mr. Foster, is empowered to express the opinion of the President and the Senate, and certify of their sanction of the Treaty.

The Tories throughout the country are organizing meetings to protest against the disestablishment of the Irish Church.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.
 In the House of Commons this evening, the Irish Church Bill being up, Mr. Gladstone said that there was no intention of abolishing the system of national education in Ireland, but that amendments might be introduced.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.
 The Right Hon. Mr. Monaghan applied to Mr. Chubb, and he thought an appropriation of a loan for the Intercolonial Railway to pay the debt of Canada would not be illegal, considering the precautions taken to render the same available when needed.

The Cork City Council has adopted a petition for the pardon of the Irish Church.

ALABAMA CLAIMS.
 NEW YORK, May 23.—The Times London special says: Address from England, printed in the journals to-day (Friday), are regarded here as favorable to the United States, and in official circles it is believed that redemptive negotiations on the Alabama question by the British Government, is not very far distant. Senator Sumner is very severely criticized here on account of the letter in the London Times. It has given great offence in diplomatic circles. His criticism on members of the English Embassy is considered, if not entirely correct, at least extremely distasteful. His statements in reference to Mr. Sumner are absolutely untrue. The Massachusetts Senate has passed a resolution for the removal of the Intention of Secretary, and there was only one dissent against the publication of the speech; namely, McCreary of Kentucky.

QUESTIONS, MAY 23.—The steamer "Cuba," from New York, has arrived.
